Meet Dan

LCSRA's very own Dan Ludemann, of Bolingbrook recently completed his training and became LCSRA's first Special Olympics Global Messenger. Global Messengers are athlete ambassadors who help foster awareness and advocacy for the Special Olympics movement. Athletes must complete a two-day training session that covers communications, speech writing and presentations. Global Messengers are called upon to give presentations about their involvement with Special Olympics to various groups throughout the state with the goal of increasing awareness about the program.

Dan is one of 17 athletes who completed this training. Megan Meyer completed the training with Dan as his coach and speech mentor. Great job, Dan!
